TRANSIT MERGER HEARING CLOSED

Murray Carleton and J. C. Van Blarcom Last Witnesses in Suit Brought by Cella, Adler and

The taking of testimony in the suit of Cella, Adler and Tilles for a participation in the profits from the merger of the Transit Company and the United Raliways closed yesterday afternoon.

Murray Carleton, retiring president of the United Railways, and J. C. Van Blarcom, vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, were the last witnesses ex-

Mr. Carleton testified that he held 200 shares of Transit stock. He said Cella, Adler and Tilles held between 19,000 and 11.000 shares. He did not know how many shares James Campbell held.

At this juncture Judge Priest volunteered the information that at the time the agreement was talked of that be, himself, held but one share of the Transit Company stock, but that Brown Brothers gave to him the opportunity to particlpate in the reorganization.

He said he paid $81,000 and was allowed the value of $100,000 in the participation. In resuming, Mr. Carleton tertified that reports that Brown Brothers dictated the policy of the Transit Company was untrue.

J. C. Van Blarcom testified that he way an officer of the Bank of Commerce which made the contract with Brown Brothers to receive deposits of stock under the syndicate arrangement.

He said that Cella, Adler and Tilles turned over their stock, but refused to sign an agreement to let Brown Brothers take charge of the transaction. This was the reason that the firm did not participate in the profits of the syndicate, he pote in the profits of the syndicate, he Secretary Shaw Issues Orders That Term "Executive Manulon" Be Not Used in Official Papers of Department.

West Building, 18th and P Streets. Washington, April 29.-According to an order based to-day by Secretary Shaw. President Roosevelt still Insists on his official home being designated as "The White House," and not as "The Executive Mansion."

Secretary Shaw has issued an order to officers and employes of the Treasury directing that herenfter all official matter prepared or written in the executive de-partment of the Treasury, where refer-ence has to be made to the presidential headquarters shall contain "The White House" and not "The Executive Man-

House" and not "The Executive Mansion."

Shortly after entering upon the duties of President, Mr. Roosevelti caused the "official title" "Executive Manslon" to be changed to "The White House." Since that time all official letters, messages to Congress, etc., going out of and being staned at his offices have borne the title
"The White House."

'Until the orders for the change, "Executive Mansion" had been the official title of all Presidents since Washington, The letterheads, envelopes and other paper during the McKinley and prior administrations hore the inscription "Executive Mansion," and presidential documents were issued from there.
